In his second book, Out of My Mind, Francis continues to recount stories of his past. In simple narrative and verse, he reflects on life s hopes and fears, sorrows and joys. In the final entry, Facing Darkness, the author relates his confrontation with, and emotional triumph over, a diagnosis of Alzheimer s disease. Poetry is about our experiences, strength, and hopes. I admire your honesty and humor, and for smiling in the face of adversity. The world can enjoy and garner strength from you. Marilyne Smith, a reader About the Author: Francis Ruiter, now eighty years old, once heard his uncle read a funny poem at his parents twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. He was impressed. In time, following his uncle s footsteps, Francis tried to write stories and poems, too. However, it wasn t until an accident forced him to slow down that he made his first attempts. At the age of fifty-eight, while riding his bike, he was hit by a truck and driven off the road. He became an amputee. Suddenly, having lost his ability to run or walk, and needing a release from boredom, he started writing.
