First, each system has different electrolyzer system efficiencies. As a result, the systems will need different amount of electricity to make the same amount of hydrogen. Second, different electrolyzers have different system lives. This analysis had an analysis period and plant life of 40 years. This time was chosen to be consistent with the H2A guidelines. However, electrolyzers have a stack life of 5-15 years, so different manufacturers stacks will need to be replaced at different intervals. The systems with the shorter system life will have higher capital costs. The graph in Figure 4 better illustrates the different cost contributions for all three cases, along with the difference in cost contributions across the cases. For all three cases, the other raw material cost contribution, decommissioning cost contribution, and variable O and M cost contribution...
