Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Mother s Trials and Triumphs It was a bright Sunday afternoon in early summer, and the church bells had ceased. Anne Wright sate amidst the youngest of her little flock, teaching them lessons of heavenly wisdom; not preaching to them indeed, but simply telling them the great truths which she herself believed, talking of Jesus as of some dear friend in whose love she herself rejoiced, and to whom she longed to bring her beloved ones. There was a reality and sincerity in all this Christian mother said, which at once inspired the children with faith in her; and it is a great point gained in educating our children to have obtained their entire belief in our word. It lays a capital foundation for the structure hereafter to be raised of faith in things unseen. To-day she was telling them the story of the widow s son, whom the Saviour, in pity for the mother s grief, had raised to life at Nain. Her voice faltered, and her eye filled as she spoke, for...
