Not illustrated. 1903 Excerpt: . life, so that as we go out again into the midst of the world it will not be an effort to lead helpful, purposeful lives; we shall walk on through the world in such a manner that men will somehow feel that God has passed that way. Tune 26 There can be no rest except that which is rooted in peace of the soul. Shut us away from the strife and clamor of the world into the infinite peace and silence of the eternal love. Tune 27 God s ways are the ways that J demand time. All things in this world that are done well--all the art, all the literature, all the beauty, all life s perfection whatever it may be--come to us only as the result of labor, labor that has been content to wait. Tune 28 e have toilecl so long an(l earnJ estly at our task, our eyes have grown weary and our hands are numb. Are we so burdened with the doing of many things that we can not heed the invitation, Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest awhile? Do we fear the desert? Do we shrink from its solitude and its silence? Have we not learned that in the desert one is always conscious of the companionship of the stars? Tune 20 That which breaks down so many 9 men is not the work of life but its monotonous uniformity; not the strain but the...
